Cardio-Oncology Symposium

MAY 2-3, 2024

ZUCKERMAN RESEARCH CENTER
417 EAST 68TH STREET
NEW YORK, NY

2024 • NYC

msk.org/CardioOnc

Overview

The advances in cancer therapeutics has significantly improved cancer survival. With cancer mortality decreasing, cardiovascular disease has emerged as a formidable competing cause of death. Cancer survivors now demonstrate 2-5 times higher mortality risk due to cardiovascular disease than the general population, threatening to limit the gains achieved in cancer survival.

In response to the growing concerns about the cardiovascular challenges faced by patients with cancer, the field of Cardio-Oncology has evolved, consisting of experts in both cancer and cardiovascular medicine working to improve the detection, monitoring, and treatment of cardiovascular disease at each stage of the cancer care continuum. The field is rapidly growing to meet the urgent need to improve the cardiovascular health of patients with cancer.

Join us in person in New York City for this state-of-the-art, comprehensive, case-based curriculum addressing critical topics relevant to the cardiovascular health of patients with cancer and cancer survivors. Together, an interdisciplinary group, consisting of cardiology and oncology experts from Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center and around the world, will present the latest research and contemporary practice strategies in the prevention, early diagnosis, and management of cardiovascular disease in cancer patients and cancer survivors.

Early rates available through March 1, 2024:

msk.org/CardioOnc

The symposium will include a series of talks highlighting cutting-edge and trending subjects in the rapidly evolving field of Cardio-Oncology, ensuring that participants gain insights into the most recent advancements shaping the future of cardiovascular care for cancer patients.

Networking Opportunities

This symposium will offer a forum for networking and professional collaboration. All presentations will include devoted time for interaction between audience members and presenters. Additionally, a complimentary networking reception will be held on Thursday, May 2, 2024, following the symposium, to provide an opportunity for the Cardio-Oncology community to interact and get to know each other. Please RSVP for the networking reception during registration. We hope to see you there!

Who Should Attend

This symposium is intended for cardiologists, internists, hematologists/oncologists, advanced practice providers, nurses, housestaff and other affiliated healthcare professionals who are involved in the care of cancer patients or have an interest in the field of cardio-oncology.

Online Syllabus

Attendees will receive access to an online syllabus after the conclusion of the overall symposium. The syllabus will include select PDFs of the faculty presentations (slides) and video recordings of the lectures. The syllabus (PDFs and video recordings) will be available through December 31, 2024.

Early rates available through March 1, 2024:

Educational Objectives

At the conclusion of this symposium, learners will be able to:

- Describe contemporary anti-cancer treatments (such as anthracyclines, targeted therapy, immunotherapy, cellular therapy, radiation), outlining their roles in cancer therapy, mechanisms of action, cardiotoxicity profiles, and their impact on the cardiovascular system
- Determine the strategies for monitoring and managing cardiotoxicity, identifying the evidence and the knowledge gaps
- Explain the diagnostic and treatment strategies for cardiac amyloidosis including advances in therapy
- Demonstrate the principles of the permissive cardiotoxicity strategy and how it applies in specific treatment scenarios
- Summarize the appropriate use of imaging modalities in contemporary Cardio-Oncology, from guidelines to best practices
- State the late cardiovascular sequelae of cancer treatment and the best approach to managing the cardiovascular health of adult survivors of childhood cancer
- Illustrate the challenges of managing acute cardiovascular disease in patients during cancer treatment
