PANCREAS CANCER

Update on Cancer Biology, Treatment, and Outcome

NOVEMBER 18-19, 2022

ZUCKERMAN RESEARCH CENTER • NEW YORK, NY
(IN-PERSON ONLY)

THE AMERICAN
BOARD OF SURGERY

In partnership with Memorial Sloan Kettering's
Hepatopancreatobiliary Disease Management Team (HPB DMT)
and Center for Pancreatic Cancer Research (CPCR).

Memorial Sloan Kettering
Cancer Center

The incidence of pancreas cancer continues to rise, and related morbidity and mortality remain unacceptably high. Treatment approaches continue to evolve with better insights into disease pathogenesis and progression.

This day and a half, in-person symposium is a combined effort of MSK's Hepatopancreatobiliary Disease Management Team (HPB DMT) and Center for Pancreatic Cancer Research (CPCR) and will provide a comprehensive review of the epidemiology, genomic, and immunologic features of pancreatic adenocarcinoma and how advances in these areas are impacting current management.

The program will include an emphasis on contemporary management approaches in patients with resectable and unresectable disease, the respective roles of and outcomes of chemotherapy (adjuvant/neoadjuvant/palliative) and radiation therapy (standard/ablative), and a discussion of novel and emerging therapies, including immunotherapy, vaccines, and genomic-directed therapies. Didactic sessions will be supplemented with several case presentations with audience participation. We will also feature a presentation from one of our patients recently treated for pancreas cancer.

Who Should Attend

This symposium is intended for medical and surgical oncologists, gastroenterologists, internal medicine specialists, pathologists, geneticists, pharmacists, supportive care staff, advanced practice practitioners, nurses, trainees, and other disciplines.

MSK is pleased to extend a complimentary invitation to patients who wish to attend this program.

Educational Objectives

- Update the genetic and molecular hallmarks of pancreas cancer
- Outline current diagnostic approaches in patients with pancreas cancer
- Describe contemporary surgical strategies, including the role of vascular reconstruction
- Review contemporary non-surgical therapies in the adjuvant, neoadjuvant and palliative settings
- Define novel and emerging therapies

Zuckerman Research Center
417 East 68th Street • New York, NY

Symposium Location

This program will be held In-person only at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center's Zuckerman Research Center.

All in-person attendees must be vaccinated against COVID-19. Additional details, including our current Health and Safety Protocols can be accessed online at: mskcc.org/PancreasSymposium

Accreditation

Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

AMA Credit Designation Statement

Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center designates this enduring material for a maximum of 12.00 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

MOC Recognition Statements

Successful completion of this CME activity, which includes participation in the evaluation component, enables the participant to earn up to:

- 12.00 Medical Knowledge MOC points in the American Board of Internal Medicine's Maintenance of Certification Assessment Recognition program; and
- 12.00 Accredited CME and Self-Assessment MOC points in the American Board of Surgery's Continuous Certification program.

It is the CME activity provider's responsibility to submit participant completion information to ACCME for the purpose of granting ABIM or ABS MOC credit.
